

Saturdays match
was in the nature of a parade.
Bailey arrived
with his
uniform,
baby and
swagger
cane

and immediately
held a reception

which certainly put
the fear
into Butcher

and affected Hoar so much that I thought
an Income
Tax
Collector
was behind
him.

at least I think so,
although it may have been the baby

Chorus of girls: Isn't he a dear?

Parker was the only one who kept
his nerve
and his
"I say,
don't you
live
around here?"

Not to be outdone, Millwall
sent out
an ex-
police constable
as
"goalie"

almost broke down
the reserve
defence of the linesman!
