FOR THE INSIDE-LEFT POSITION

Two Points For Town rom Very Poor Game

By Chiltern

RDON TURNER came into the reckoning for inside-left position in the Football League team that s the League of Ireland in Dublin tomorrow. First Johnny Haynes, of Fulham, then Johnny ats, of Tottenham, had to stand down because of y and enquiries were made of Manager Dally can on Sunday about whether Turner was fit. In the end, choice alighted on Denis Viollett, of chester United, who was preferred to Turner beinside-left is his normal position.

n Descended To Ererton's Level

It has often happened in the past that the Town have tended to be brought down to a low level when opposed to poor opposition, and they will certainly not meet any weaker this season than that radically if they are not to join their Liverpool neighbours in the Second Division.

It was a very poor game which roused scarcely any enthusiasm from the crowd and with only one O'Neill helpless. memorable patch.

The Town's One And Only Purple Patch

THAT came immediately after the match with Everton Town manager told his forwards:

"You must cash in on this oppo-For a few minutes, Everton were really at panic stations, with the Town forwards swarming around their goal, and a decisive win seemed to be in prospect when Pearce evaded the offside trap to run on to a pass by Cullen and increase the lead after 50 minutes.

In a most undistinguished first half, the Town had had the better of matters, but had managed to score only once.

A Splendid Goal

From Turner THIS counted as Turner's ninth goal of the season and a very well-taken affair it was, for it seemed that he had insufficient room in which to turn on to a short pass by Morton. However, he did so and flashed in a great cross shot that left opposition.

Two goals down, Everton looked to be in for a real hiding. but the early sparkle of the second half faded all too quickly. and the Town attack again became fitful and somewhat haphazard. One of their troubles was that they kept the ball too close and their finishing in the later stages was almost too bad to be true.

Shooting Inaccurate And Without Sting

quarters and the shooting generally was innecurate and lacked sting. Yet, there was the solid fact that there was some shooting by the Town, for precious little came from Everton, with the result that Streten has rarely had a more restful afternoon. His main excitement came when a fight broke out behind his goal and he demonstrated with his fists to policemen what was going on. Everton, who dropped a complete forward line in mid-week, will have to do more chopping and changing before they can be satisfied with their attack.

Everton Showed A Lack Of Experience SOME judicious prompting by Fielding apart, the whole fine showed its lack of experience and the enthusiasm that Llewellyn and Kirby managed to whip up did not get them very far.

Kirby, a tall youngster, looked as if he might well be a danger in a good line, but he lacked support and, in addition, got little change out of Owen, who blotted him out. For the defence as a whole, this was an easy match, with Dunne and Aherne gaining a complete grip on the wingers, who were switched before the match, but went back to their original positions in the second half.

Dunne had time to make some of his favourite excursions upfield in an endeavour to infuse some life up in front.

Morton Has Rarely Been So Subdued

BY Pemberton there was a tendency to give Fielding rather a lot of room, and he did not have one of his best matches because his distribution. usually a good point, was off the beam, but Shanks was capable enough in a quiet sort of way.

Biggest disappointment, though, was the failure of the forwards to make the most of this occasion and Morton has rarely had such an unproductive afternoon. From start to finish, scarcely anything went right for him. and it was only seldom that he managed to chade the grip of Jones, easily the most solid of the Everton defence.

Morton is in something of a bad patch, and he is being caught in possession too often.

Adam Carried A Threat To Everton

DOTENTIALLY the best of the forwards was Adam, who had the beating of Donovan without much difficulty, and did make better use of the ball in the first balf than he does usually.

Unfortunately, the standard of his finishing fell away after the interval and there was one tragi-comic effort when rounded Donovan, came alon-the dead-line, drew O'Neill from goal and then trod on the ball as he tried to pull it back for what would probably have been with his speed and natural ability. Adam would be one of the most dangerous wingers in the game if he could only achieve more consistency in his

it, but Cullen did a lot too much wandering in search of the ball on the accound half, and, in addition, was caught well offside neveral times. Wandering such as this can be overdone, and Cullen would be well advised not to let his undoubted cuthusiasm run away with him. From Pearce there was a dea' of hard work and honest effort and some mixed distribution of the ball. type, and the line is still suffering from the lack of someone to hold the ball and draw the

Slump In Attendance A Matter Of Concern

THIS is one of the problems facing the Town, but they may be shelved for the moment in view of the fact that the points were collected and in the hope that better-class opposition will cause the team to rise to the occasion.

Turner's goal was a gem but, THE goals apart, very little went on the whole, his shooting was right for them at close not so good as it can be, though he always looked as if he n produce more in the way of goals. The way in which the attendance figures slumped must be a matter of some concern to Town officials but, at the same time, this match was no sort of advertisement for football and certainly no remedy for emptying terraces.

Pacey Did Well For The Reserves

ALTHOUGH the Reserves from Plymouth with no reward on Saturday and, in fact, gave a pretty disappointing display, there was at least one cause for satisfaction.

That was the promising performance of wing-half David Pacey, Luton's newest professional recruit, who was able to turn out in this game because he is stationed in Devon with an army

He showed a lot of natural ability, used the ball well and did not seem to find the pace too game and this Irish defender has made a big impression in his comparatively short spell in England.

> Defeat Was Not Collier's Fault

PLYMOUTH won 2-0, with a goal in each half from Swiggs and Kerr, but Collier, who had a good game, was not at fault when either of the goals

In front of him the defence was not so sound as usual, with only McNally and Ray Smith playing up to form. Jones tried hard cnough, but had one of those matches in which everything seems to go wrong.

The artack, too, was below par. Gregory and Groves were both guilty of holding on to the ball too long and Pounder, after a poor first half, came more into the game during the second period.

Most of the good footballand there was not a lot-came from the young left-wing pair of Burry Hawkes and Roland Legate.

> Baynham Came Through Test

RON BAYNHAM came through his first test after recovery from injury in most satisfactory style when playing for the "A" team at Guildford on Saturday. He was beaten three times, but had no chance at all of saving any of them.

At one time the Town looked like winning this Metropolitan League Cup-tie, for Ted Duggan gave them an interval lead, but He is not really the schemer Guildford struck two quick blows soon after half-time and added another goal before King could reply for the Town.

Young David Hills again impressed at centre-forward and was unlucky not to score when, after he had rounded the goalkeeper. he was pulled down, but the referee waved aside penalty claims.

Town C.C.'s Amazing Batting Collapse

AN amazing collapse in which cight wickets fell while under 19 runs were being added brought the Town C.C. to the verge of defeat at Tring Park on Saturday, and they staved off that with the last pair together.

Replying to the home total of 147 for seven, the Town began 28, and then John Muse, who hit two sixes, helped Colling to take the score to 102 before the second wicket fell.

After that it was a tale of disaster, with wickets tumbling like minepins, and five batsmen being dismissed without scoring.

Another Batting Breakdown

AS things turned out, it was as well that John Oliver, who was number four in the batting order, kept one end going, and bowler Terry Matthews was his last partner when stumps were drawn.

Last cricket of the season at Wardown on Sunday brought a heavy defeat for the club, with the batting breaking down again after a fairly good start in reply to Letchworth's 121 for six. Ken Brazier and Bruce Satterie
