LUTON TOWN, FA Cup quarter-finalists, suffered a blow in their Second Division match at Millwall last night when striker Barry Butlin was taken off with a leg injury after 69 minutes.

Then he had to be stretchered to the dressing rooms, and the injury was diagnosed as cartilage trouble.

Luton, who have the best away record in the League this season, found themselves two goals down after 46 minutes through Gordon Bolland (34) and one by Derek Smethurst, back in the side for the injured Doug Alder, 12 minutes later.

Victory

John Aston put Luton level with goals in the 65th and 68th minutes.

Luton's John Ryan was booked by referee Ron Perkin (Stafford) in the 37th minute.

Bolland scored his second goal after 76 minutes to give Millwall a 3-2 victory and stretch the London club's unbeaten run at home to 13 matches.

Their last defeat was against Fulham in September.
