

JAGO STILL HAS HIS PROBLEMS

ALTHOUGH Queen's Park Rangers have almost secured promotion to the First Division, Gordon Jago, their manager, is not without his problems.

There is the urgent need to convince Bowles, Rangers' striker, that London is not such a bad place in which to live.

Equally pressing is the problem of strengthening the centre-back position—though the present incumbent Mancini played a major part in this ninth successive home league win with Rangers' first goal after 24 minutes—a powerful header from a cross by Thomas.

Givens, formerly of Luton, ended a six-match dry spell with the second goal, a rising volley from a perfect through ball by Francis.

Bowles had another attempt disallowed, but this was as nothing compared with Luton's luck. They had three second-half chances refused, Hindson sent off—after a booking—and Anderson also booked.
