

Husband . . . scored for Luton in the 19th minute.

SMUG LUTON LET VICTORY SLIP

⁷⁵/₇₆ By ERIC NICHOLLS

Luton 1 Plymouth ... 1

Luton added another frustrating aspect to their recent inconsistencies at Kenilworth Road last night—complacency.

Smarting from two defeats, they tore holes in Plymouth's defence in a lively first half, scored once, missed half-a-dozen more chances, then threw away victory.

Even Harry Haslam's almost permanent smile disappeared as Luton stumbled through a second half of errors—all because they thought they had the game already won.

Husband shot them into a 19th-minute lead when the two Ryans, Jim and John, combined at a free kick for John's shot to be pushed by Aleksic for Husband to round off.

Concentration lost

Luton's early domination disappeared after half-time as they strutted and strolled, lost concentration, and indeed both points.

McAuley and Mariner had Barber in difficulties before an error by Faulkner provided Plymouth with a goal and their first away point this season. Johnson took the chance to score and left Barber to argue it out with the unhappy Faulkner.
