Grimsby	39	14	15	10	41	35	43

FOR just 24 hours the Town were in the top three in the Second Division for the first time this season after collecting four points from their two Easter games.

Saturday's win pushed them up to fifth place, two points below the top three, but by Monday evening

Into the top three — for one day they had edged into third, ahead on goal difference of Blackburn, and four points behind second-placed Notts County.

Now they are fifth again, level on points with Swansea but two goals behind them. Blackburn regained third place with a 0-0 draw at Preston on Tuesday, having managed the same score in their home game on Saturday against Bolton.

Swansea were held to a 1-1 home draw by Cardiff on Saturday, but climbed above the Town on Tuesday night with a 2-1 victory at Bristol Rovers.

Sheffield Wednesday slipped out of serious contention when they lost 0-2 at Shrewsbury on Tuesday after crushing Cambridge 4-1 at Hillsborough on Saturday.

Notts County look secure in second place — their Easter brought a 0-0 home draw with Preston and a 2-1 win at Cambridge.

The dogfight is for third place, between Blackburn, Swansea, the Town, Derby and Grimsby. But Blackburn and Grimsby have both played one more game than their rivals and the situation is that if either the Town or Swansea can win all their remaining games, promotion will be assured.

Monday's collision at the Vetch Field holds the key.

At the other end of the table Preston's fight for survival has meant that Bristol City are now relegated along with neighbouring Rovers, just a year after coming down from the First Division.

● ON OUR WAY: Godfrey Ingram, Kirk Stephens and Raddy Antic start the celebrations and congratulate David Moss on his penalty winner against Bristol Rovers. He scored again, his 18th goal of the season, at Stamford Bridge on Monday.

'YOU LOOKED LIKE FIRST DIVISION'

34A — Geoff Hurst...

PUTTING A RUN OF good results together when it matters most, the Town set themselves up for a genuine tilt at promotion with their third win on the trot at Stamford Bridge on Monday. They gave manager David Pleat the perfect tonic as he went home to pack for a week's stay in hospital for a minor operation.

If anyone looked sick in London, it was Chelsea boss Geoff Hurst, who has seen his collection of expensive stars slide right out of promotion contention after being near the top just before Christmas. "We just aren't good enough at the moment," he confessed.

And he wouldn't be surprised to see the Town pick up a promotion prize which seemed to have slipped away a couple of weeks ago.

"They're one of the best footballing sides in the Second Division," he said. "They weren't at their best against us, but they deserved to win. I like to see good football rewarded, and the kind that Luton play deserves to take them into the First Division".

The Town still have a lot to do as they wind up the season with Saturday's home match with Oldham and away games at Swansea on Monday and Bolton on Saturday week. And it has to be said that Chelsea, lacking confidence and short of any sort of brain in attack never really stretched them.

Even the first goal was down to eccentric goalkeeper Petar Borota, who took the field looking like a refugee from Billy Smart's circus — white socks, blue tracksuit trousers and shorts, and a bright red jersey.

His kit was the nearest any Chelsea player got to being dazzling. They managed to create only one clear chance, wasted in the fifth minute when Jake Findley was able to make a simple save from Colin Lee.

Mike Saxby was the man of the match in a defensive formation which left Chelsea completely baffled — Raddy Antic stayed behind Saxby and Paul Price for the whole 90 minutes and the Chelsea attack fizzled out, with Lee noticeable only for some bad-tempered aggression which eventually brought him an overdue booking.

Ricky Hill and Tony Grealish were more than a match for three opponents in midfield, and Kirk Stephens again made himself available for surges down the right.

If the Town did not look as good as they can be, Chelsea's wretched display was significant.

All the good chances came at the other end, with Moss hitting the side netting from one opening by Stephens, and then putting the Town ahead in the 26th minute with a goal which had Hurst exasperated with his goalkeeper.

The move started with Findley punting a clearance to Moss. He knocked it inside to Brian Stein, took the return pass on the left-wing and moved in to shoot from near the angle of the penalty area, in the inside-left position. The ball bounced once as it skipped past Borota's late dive into the far corner.

Stephens put a couple of shots just wide and Antic curled a low free-kick agonisingly close before a superb goal killed off Chelsea in the 77th minute. Saxby won a tackle near the half-way line and slotted a perfect pass forward. Chelsea had given Hill yards of space, and he took the ball ten yards forward before driving his shot past Borota from just outside the penalty area.

"A lovely goal," agreed Hurst, who has every right to pass judgement on such matters. "It was just a pity that a goalkeeping mistake gave Luton their first. We didn't really look like pulling one back, did we?"
