UPHILL FIGHT ON THE SPOT

BIRMINGHAM CITY 1, LUTON TOWN 1
(Half-time: 0-1)

A CRUEL penalty nine minutes from time robbed the Town of their eighth away win of the season at St Andrews on Tuesday night.

But if referee Eric Read's decision to give Birmingham City a late reprieve was harsh, they probably deserved it after pounding away at an over-worked but defiant Town defence for most of the match.

But it was ironic that Thomas, who had had another superb game, should be the man to be penalised. He thought he had no chance of taking evasive action when Howard Gayle tried to drive in a right wing cross, but was adjudged to have handled and Birmingham skipper Billy Wright scored from the spot.

That wiped out a superb early goal by Brian Stein. He broke his ten-match famine with a sweet strike in the fourth minute.

It was the Town's first attack, set up by a strong midfield burst and perceptive pass by Raddy Antic. It caught the Birmingham defence square and Stein controlled the ball quickly before whipping a low shot expertly into the net.

From then on Birmingham were all action hustlers, but for a long time their long ball tactics showed no sign of upsetting a cool Town defence, with Paul Elliott and Clive Goodyear taking everything in the air in their stride.

Midfield was largely bypassed for a long time, but Birmingham had ample opportunity to equalise long before they did.

Their best first-half effort came when a run down the right wing by Pat van den Hauwe saw him flick a pass inside Thomas and Gayle lobbed accurately towards the top far corner.

Les Sealey was off his line, but back-pedalled at high speed and made a marvellous save, finger-tipping the ball over the bar.

Almost the whole of the second half was a case of resolute Town defence, bolstered by midfielders, against non-stop Birmingham attacks.

The Blues won seven corners, had a string of shots charged down, and also managed to waste more chances.

Gayle threatened to cause immense damage, but was held by Thomas, and it looked as though a hard-earned away win was on the cards until that late penalty.

Birmingham contributed to their own frustration by being over-anxious. Mick Harford, who had missed one difficult chance in the first half wasted a simple one in the second when he blazed over the bar from ten yards.

Thomas headed off the line from Tony Rees from a corner that was not cleared, and Rees missed a golden chance to snatch a Birmingham victory when he headed wide from eight yards in the last minute.

In attack Paul Walsh had no chance to impress watching Liverpool officials. Birmingham had obviously given deep thought to his reputation and he was so well policed by Wright and Blake that he didn't have a single shot on target. But nor did many other Town players.
