Manager's viewpoint

I just felt it was a shame for the players that they "I just felt it was a shame for the players that they did not get what they deserved." Everton manager Colin Harvey, under pressure from fans who hate to see the Blues so far adrift of the Reds from the other side of Stanley Park, was deligh-pleased, despite feeling quite down about the result. We played a lot of good football. "Perhaps we have not been consistent enough through 90 minutes in games, but we have always produced good stuff and that much is pleasing. And it is a relatively inexperienced team.

DEFENDING IN DEPTH

• UNLUCKY: Jain Dowie is denied by Neville Southall's lucky save as a second-half chance goes an inch or two astray.
