CHAMPIONSHIP side Luton had a comfortable victory at League Two Leyton Orient.

Orient actually started the brighter and Efe Echanomi had the ball in the net in the first minute only to be ruled offside.

But Luton soon took control and towering striker Enoch Showumni spurned a number of opportunities before Chris Coyne achieved the breakthrough in first half added time.

Coyne struck with a clever lob from the edge of the area after a corner.

Showumni pounced on home keeper Glyn Garner's poor clearance to lay on Luton's second for Warren Feeney on 71 minutes.

And four minutes later, home captain Gary Alexander, under pressure from Curtis Davies, conceded an own goal when he met a free kick from Kevin Nicholls.

Orient replied in added time when midfielder Daryl McMahon threaded his way past opponents and scored a deserved consolation effort from the edge of the penalty area.
