the gaffer

Hello and welcome to tonight's match against Luton Town.

I'd like to welcome Paul Buckle, his Luton side and everyone connected with the Hatters to Edgar Street.

Well, what a weekend we've just had!

It was a great cup win over Shrewsbury, a great performance with some great goals too.

On Saturday, we set out our stall from the off, we showed Shrewsbury that we wanted to win, and that we believed we could win.

We got two good goals early on, but we also had to defend well and it was a good team performance that saw us get the deserved win.

The win doesn't solve all of our problems. On the pitch, we still have a number of players out injured. Off the pitch, we still face an uphill struggle with our finances.

But the win will net us a decent amount of prize money, and it also gives us an exciting opportunity to try and reach the FA Cup Third Round by beating another local rival in Cheltenham.

What we need to do is use our cup victories to spur us on in the league games.

The cup win all happened on the weekend, it's in the past for now and today we must focus on our visitors, Luton.

As expected, Luton are proving to be a good side again this season. After missing out on promotion back into the league on a few occasions, they'll be even more keen to try and get back automatically.

They have a good manager at the helm in Paul Buckle, and they have some terrific players, but we are full of confidence at the moment.

We are undefeated in five games now, including a win against League 1 opposition - we have every reason to be confident this evening.

Our team spirit is fantastic, with every player wanting to work for each other, and that's a great thing to have in a side. Hopefully we will start to see some of the injured players starting to return in the coming weeks.

We have certainly had more than our fair share of injuries so far this season.

Finally, thank you for your fantastic support during Saturday's game.

While the attendance was possibly short of what was expected, the atmosphere was everything we thought it would be on the day.

The players obviously responded to the positive singing and shouting from the terraces and the stands and I'd ask you to keep that going this evening.

We will have an equally tough task tonight against Luton as we did against Shrewsbury on Saturday.

So once again, we all need to work together to get that valuable league victory.

Enjoy the game.

from the boardroom

Well, what a great result Martin and the players pulled off on Saturday with our win in the FA Cup First Round against our friends from up the A49.

Every player played his part, but I must say that I thought Ryan Bowman gave the most complete centre-forward performance that I have seen for many, many years.

If one local derby was not enough, we then pull Cheltenham Town out of the hat in the Second Round, away at Whaddon Road on the weekend of 1st/2nd December.

Although we would have liked another home match, this one is almost as good for us.

We would hope to take 600-700 supporters and may even have a fully fit squad by then.

Some people suggest that the FA Cup is merely a distraction from the real competition of league football. For Hereford United, it is a part of our history and a crucial source of additional funds, which is so important to us as we continue our financial recovery following relegation from the Football League last summer.

On Saturday, you created such a great atmosphere in the ground that helped our young players to more than match their League 1 opponents and hopefully you will again this evening as we return to Blue Square Bet Premier action against pre-season title favourites Luton Town.

Returning with the Luton team tonight will be Janos Kovacs, Stuart Fleetwood and Dean Beckwith, who need little introduction. Welcome back to Edgar Street.

I must thank all those who are continuing to donate to our fighting fund and/or organising fundraising events. We had a great night at the Halloween Quiz when Marley Watkins took the fancy dress prize.

Will the Malvern walkers now be walking to Cheltenham I wonder, with the FA Cup game replacing the Telford match?

Seriously, your efforts will make the difference over the coming weeks and months.

Finally, I would like to welcome our visitors this evening from Kenilworth Road - chairman Nick Owen, his fellow directors, manager Paul Buckle and his players, and of course all the travelling Luton supporters. We hope to see an entertaining match.

Thank you very much for your continuing support.

LONDON BULLS

The London Bulls have announced plans for a fundraiser in the capital, which is due to take place on Friday 7th December when the Bulls travel to Barrow.

Hereford United's trip to Holker Street will be screened live on Premier Sports, and the London Bulls plan to gather from 6:30pm at the Jetlag Bar, W1, who can boast a HD-quality widescreen television in a dedicated cinema bar.

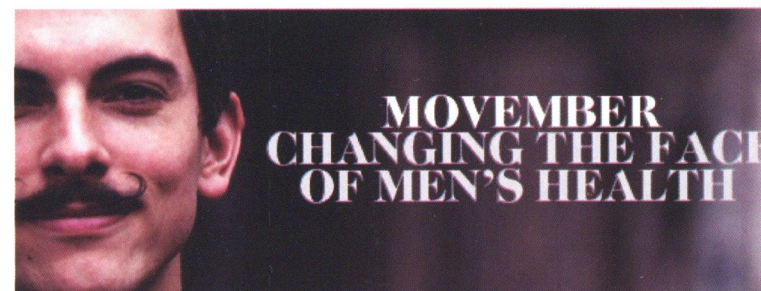

Bulls legend Ricky George will be in attendance from 7pm for a pre-match question and answer session, with other special guests also set to make an appearance.

2-4-1 cocktails and a Duty Free Hour will be available until 8pm, while a half-time auction of official Hereford United merchandise will take place on the night, as will a prize draw and raffle.

Proceeds raised will be added to the club's Fighting Fund.

Pop along and back the Bulls!

luton town

Luton Town will put their FA Cup replay at Nuneaton Town out of their minds tonight.

Although they will relish an FA Cup run, a competition in which they reached the final in 1959, their top priority is to regain their Football League place which they relinquished when they were relegated from League 2 in 2008/09.

In each of their three seasons in non-league football they have been favourites to win one of the two promotion places but each time they have suffered play-off heartache.

Manager Paul Buckle's aim is to win promotion outright.

After 16 games they are on track to achieve their objective. In their last league game they visited Forest Green Rovers and beat them 2-1 to move into second in the table, a point behind leaders Newport County.

Rovers took the lead in the 49th minute but former Hereford and Forest Green striker Stuart Fleetwood equalised in the 74th minute, before Scott Rendell grabbed the winner with late penalty.

It was a familiar situation for Luton this season, with the Hatters having accumulated 13 points after battling back from losing positions in matches.

Their away form has been particularly strong, with 18 of their 32 points coming from their six victories in eight games on opposition grounds.

luton 1-1 nuneaton

Scott Rendell kept Luton in the FA Cup by netting a 74th-minute equaliser after Tyrell Waite had given Nuneaton a first-half lead.

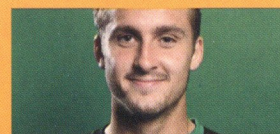

Waite edged the visitors in front in the 20th minute with a tap-in after Danny Sleath had turned Adam Walker's cross into his path at Kenilworth Road.

The Hatters dominated possession throughout the encounter, but time was running out when Rendell headed home Jake Howells' free-kick to earn a replay.

A home tie against Dorchester Town awaits the victors, after they upset Plymouth Argyle to reach the FA Cup Second Round.

Hatters in detail

the manager

Paul Buckle was appointed Luton Town's manager last April three months after his departure from Bristol Rovers.

He started his coaching career in 2005 as player/coach of Exeter City. Two years later he was installed as manager of relegated Torquay United, and in his first season the Gulls reached the Conference play-offs and the FA Trophy final.

The following year they returned to the Football League, beating Cambridge United in the play-off final.

He signed a two-year extension in 2009 before guiding his side to the League 2 play-off final at Old Trafford, where they were beaten 1-0 by Stevenage.

In May 2011 he took over as manager of Bristol Rovers.

A midfielder by trade, Buckle's playing days spanned almost 20 years. He started out in 1989 as an apprentice at Brentford, and had spells at Torquay United, Exeter City, Colchester United, Tiverton Town and Weymouth before returning to Exeter City to begin his coaching career.

the midfielder

French-born, 22-year-old Bissau-Guinean international midfielder Arnaud Mendy joined Luton Town last month on loan from their Blue Square Bet Premier rivals Macclesfield Town - a move due to be made permanent in January.

Arnaud arrived in England from Rouen in 2008 to join Derby County's academy.

In three seasons at Derby, he was a regular member of the Rams' reserve side which won the Central League championship in 2009/10.

During his time at Pride Park, he played one game on loan at Grimsby Town and in August 2010 he started a 12-match loan period at Tranmere Rovers, where he scored his first senior goal to give them a 1-0 win over Peterborough.

In 2011, upon his release by Derby, he signed for Macclesfield and played in 42 League 2 games.

He made the headlines when he netted a spectacular back-to-goal volley in their 2-2 FA Cup Third Round draw with Bolton Wanderers.

the marksman

Luton beat off stiff competition to sign prolific marksman Jon Shaw last June. The 28-year-old arrived at Kenilworth Road on the back of two seasons with Gateshead, for whom he scored 56 goals in 96 matches.

An England C international, Jon graduated through his hometown club Sheffield Wednesday's youth scheme, netting his first senior goal in a 2-2 draw against Luton.

He spent three seasons at Burton, playing 101 league matches for the Brewers, netting 26 times. In 2007/08 he moved on to Halifax Town and the goals kept coming, finishing top scorer with 20 goals in 37 league matches.

In 2008, Rochdale paid an undisclosed fee for his services, but he was hit by injury and figured in only seven league games. In January 2010, he joined Mansfield Town and at the end of that season he signed for Gateshead.

This season he scored his first goal for the Hatters in a 2-2 draw with former employers Gateshead on the opening weekend of the season.

the centre-back

Central defender Dean Beckwith started his career at Gillingham in 2003, and although he made only two first-team appearances, he captained their reserves.

While on loan to Dagenham & Redbridge he scored his first senior goal at Edgar Street in a 1-1 draw live on Sky television.

In July 2005, he returned to Edgar Street as a Bulls player and scored on his debut in a 4-0 victory over Scarborough. He went on to help the Bulls beat Halifax Town 3-2 in the play-off final at Leicester to secure promotion back to the Football League.

In 2007/08 he played in 46 of the Bulls' 55 games as they finished third in League 2 to secure automatic promotion to League 1. After making 153 outings for United he left in 2009, joining League 2 Northampton Town.

In his two seasons with the Cobblers he played in 75 league games, netting three goals. In July 2011 he signed for Luton Town and, as at Hereford, scored on his debut, against Forest Green Rovers.

the ex-skipper

Born in Budapest, 27-year-old central defender Janos Kovacs played for Hungarian club MTK before he came to England for a trial with Chesterfield, earning a three-year deal with the Spireites, chalking up a total of 66 appearances.

In 2008 he moved on to Lincoln City for a fee of £17,500 plus extras. He figured in 59 league games and scored four goals for the Imps before his contract was cancelled by mutual consent in January 2010 and he played the rest of the campaign at Luton Town.

The following summer he was signed by Hereford's then manager Simon Davey and was made the Bulls' captain.

He played 29 games in his first season with United, but in September 2011 he was transfer-listed after falling out of favour at Edgar Street.

He returned to Luton on loan in January 2011. The Hatters' then manager Gary Brabin said: "He has been a rock at the back, has given some fantastic performances and had an unbelievable effect on the team on and off the field."

the goal-getter

Born in Chepstow, striker Stuart Fleetwood joined Cardiff City's youth programme in 1998 when he was 12. He made 13 first-team appearances for the Bluebirds before joining the Bulls on loan in January 2006 and helping United win promotion via the Conference play-offs.

At the start of 2006/07 he scored the Bulls' first ever League Cup hat-trick in their victory over Coventry City.

He dropped into non-league football with Forest Green Rovers for the 2007/08 season, scoring 36 goals before signing for Charlton Athletic. His only first-team appearance for the Addicks was as a substitute in a League Cup tie at Hereford.

In 2010 he returned to Edgar Street and was top scorer with 18 goals in 49 matches. After playing eight matches at the start of 2011/12 he was transferred to Luton Town and bagged 16 goals in 47 outings. This campaign, he has already reached a double-figure tally.

At international level he has played 10 times for Wales U17s and five for the U21s.

Hereford United's former goal-getter on promotion via the play-offs, his League Cup 'that' game at Northampton, the deadline-day departure to Luton and his hopes Stuart Fleetwood's 87th-minute free-kick against Bradford City in 2010 preserved Hereford United's Football League status for another season, but just over a year after leaving for Luton Town he returns to Edgar Street with the Bulls back in non-league football.

The 26-year-old had originally joined United on loan from Cardiff City in 2006, scoring five times in 20 appearances to help Hereford clamber out of the Conference via a dramatic play-off final victory over Halifax Town in Leicester.

"It seems like a long time ago now. Accrington got promoted that year and ran away with the league in the end. We got into the play-offs and beat Morecambe and then had the final at Leicester which was great. It was nice to get Hereford back into the Football League after nine years.

"When I came in there were a few injuries to Guy Ipoua and Adam Stansfield, and I remember me and Andy Williams playing up front. It was nice to be involved and I definitely felt a part of it. It was the first promotion of my career, so it was a big moment for me at the time.

"I remember rounding the keeper in the play-off final and my touch took me a little bit wide. I got it on target but the defender cleared it off the line. There were a couple of minutes to go and that would have sealed it, but it was a great atmosphere and I remember it like yesterday."

Fleetwood's move to Edgar Street was made permanent that summer, and 'Fleets' hit the ground running in the Football League, scoring five goals in his first six games.

"The following season started really well. I scored the first goal back in the Football League against Stockport. Then there was the hat-trick against Coventry in the League Cup which was one of the greatest moments in my career. The start of the League 2 campaign was great for me.

"Obviously it wilted out a little towards the end. I was playing well and was the top goal-scorer but then contracted a virus which knocked me for six and I lost a lot of weight. I found it hard to get my momentum back. I wasn't surprised to be let go. I was disappointed, but it's just one of those things."

Fleetwood dropped back down to the Conference and revitalised himself at Forest Green Rovers – scoring 32 goals in 42 games – which earned him a move to Charlton Athletic. But he made just one substitute appearance for the Addicks – strangely against Hereford at Edgar Street in the League Cup – before deciding to depart... and rejoin United.

"I'd heard that Hereford had got a new manager and Jamie Pitman was the physio at the time, so I texted him and said that I was looking for a club. Simon Davey gave me a call and a couple of days later I was back again, so I'm glad I texted Jamie as the move might not have materialised."

Davey was sacked after 10 league games that produced a single win, and in Pitman's third match as caretaker boss, both United's and Fleetwood's campaign burst into life.

"We were 3-0 down at half-time against Northampton, and that was the turning point.

"We fought back to win 4-3 and it was the one of the greatest games I've ever been involved in – coming off the bench to score two goals and to then see the third and fourth flying in was something really special.

"We then won 5-0 against Stockport, so it showed that we needed that win and things started to turn around after that. The whole attitude of hat-trick against Coventry, for a decent reception.

the club changed and we realised that we had some good players. We kicked on to another level."

After Fleetwood's free-kick had kept the Bulls up against Bradford, hopes were high of, at least, a more comfortable season in 2011/12, but again United failed to hit the ground running, and on deadline day Luton came calling for the striker.

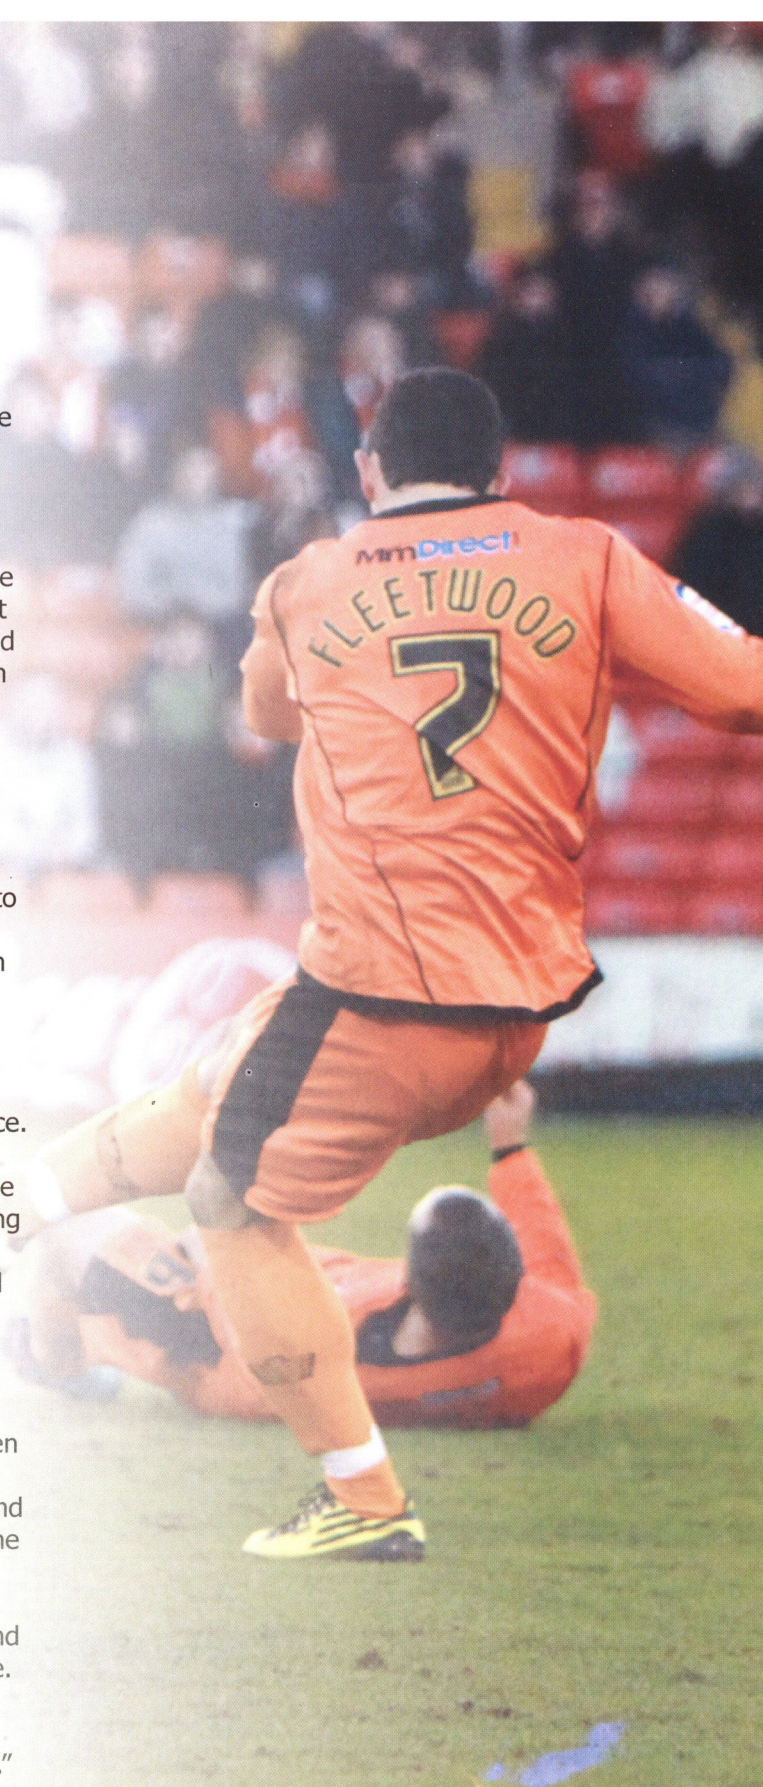

"It was rapid. I got the call after I had finished training, and the club said that they had accepted a bid from Luton, so I had four or five hours to make a decision. I spoke to Luton, and the first offer they gave me I accepted – it was too good an offer to turn down.

"Although I was stepping down a league, it was to a big club who shouldn't really be in the Conference.

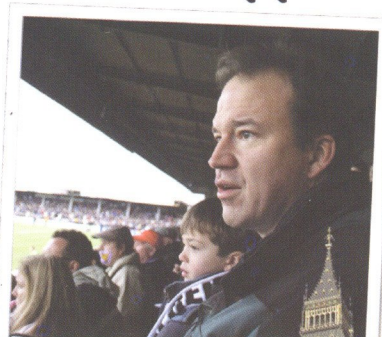

"I'm looking forward to seeing some old faces and getting back to playing at Edgar Street. I loved my time there and I'm hoping to get a good reception from the fans. They were good to me and I had a good relationship with them.

"I had a few heckles at Forest Green recently but then I scored and we won the game in the last minute and their fans clapped me off. I think the mutual respect will be there with Hereford's fans. I'll definitely clap the fans, they were good to me, and hopefully they'll do the same to me.

"I expect a few heckles from the crowd, but it's all part of the game."

The Bulls' former centre-back, who was a part of the United sides promoted in tells the bull which of the two he enjoyed the most as well as how Hereford

Luton Town defender Dean Beckwith made more than 150 appearances for Hereford United from 2005-09, and is one of just two players to start both the 2006 Conference play-off final victory over Halifax Town and the 3-0 triumph at Brentford that sealed the Bulls' second promotion in three years.

"I thoroughly enjoyed my time at Hereford. It was a new experience. I'd been at Gillingham since I left school, and when I was 21 I signed for Hereford and moved away from all my family and friends. But I settled in right away.

"In my first year we got promoted via the play-offs, and so playing in the Football League at 22 was big for me.

"Then in my third season we got promoted to League 1, which was a great experience playing football at that level at quite a young age. Moving to Hereford was a big decision for me, but it paid off.

"It really kicked off my football career. I'd signed at Gillingham as a young lad but only ever made two appearances, but once I'd moved to Hereford I was playing football week in, week out and it was a massive step for me and one that I'm delighted I took."

The 29-year-old scored on his Hereford debut in a 4-0 success over Scarborough on the opening day of the 2005/06 campaign, but he had already experienced and scored at Edgar Street...

"I was in my first year as a pro at Gillingham and I wasn't really playing, and Dagenham & Redbridge just called up on a Friday afternoon and said that they needed a centre-half, so I went there for a month and my third game was away at Hereford on a Tuesday night, live on Sky as well.

"That was my first experience of Edgar Street and it was good at the time, although as it turned out it wasn't great scoring against Hereford!"

A debate had by many a Bulls fan centres around which of United's two rapid promotions was better: the Conference play-off final victory at what was then the Walker's Stadium, or the 3-0 win at Brentford's Griffin Park which secured automatic promotion to the third tier after a remarkable season of entertaining football.

"It would have to be the play-off final for me," said Beckwith.

"There was the week building up to it. It was a great, great day and a dramatic game, too. And then it was a great four or five days after that. The celebrations went on for a few days!

"Obviously getting promotion from League 2 up to League 1 at Brentford was another special feeling and a great achievement, but as a day itself the play-off final at Leicester's ground was the better day for me"

Hereford's first game in League 1 saw Beckwith score the Bulls' opening goal of the campaign, after getting the better of another popular United central defender...

"I remember that, it was at Leyton Orient. I've got family from that way and at the time my cousin was living in one of the flats that are situated in the corners of Orient's ground!

"So I had all my family there and a few friends as well. Tamika Mkandawire was marking me for the corner.

"We were chatting as Simon Johnson was picking the ball up and going over to take the corner, and I think I took him by surprise and just nipped away from him and managed to get my head on it and the ball dropped inside the near post, which was nice."

both 2006 and 2008, launched his career.

Beckwith, now alongside fellow former Bulls Stuart Fleetwood and Janos Kovacs, is now targeting a second promotion from the Conference with the Hatters, who – like Hereford – know how cruel the play-offs can be.

"The club itself is geared to be in the Football League. It's a tough league to get out of with only one going up automatically, and the play-offs can then become a bit of a lottery as we've found out in the last couple of seasons against York and AFC Wimbledon.

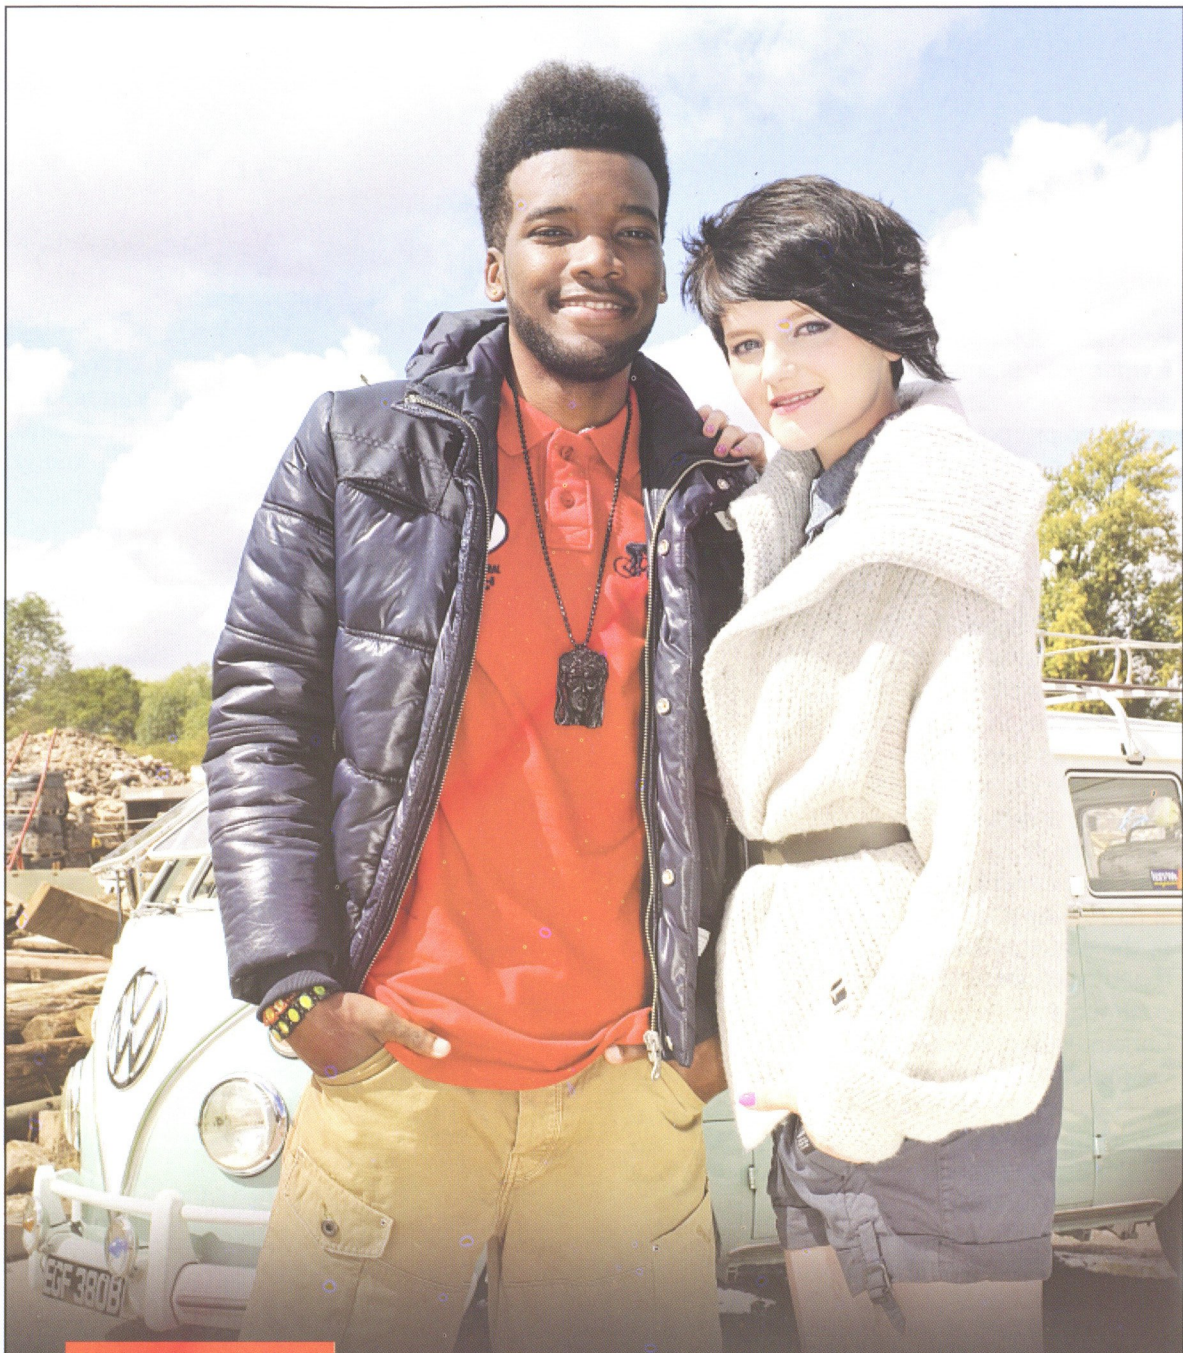

"But the squad that we've got now is more than capable of getting out of the division. We've put a little run together recently so hopefully it will continue and we'll kick on towards Christmas and beyond.

"I've got a groin injury at the moment, which has been a bit of a nightmare. We played Tamworth away on a Tuesday night, and then on the Thursday in training I tweaked a few muscles in my groin and it's not been right.

"I've been working with a specialist and it's feeling good so hopefully I'll be back in training just after the Hereford game. I haven't really had a good run in the team since I've been here and haven't played in as many games as I would have liked.

"Hopefully I can get back from injury and get some more action before the end of the season."

bulls 3-1 shrewsbury

Chris Phillips @ Edgar Street

Hereford turned in an inspired performance to beat local rivals Shrewsbury Town 3-1 in a gripping encounter at Edgar Street to see Martin Foyle's men progress to the FA Cup Second Round.

The home side flew out of the blocks, with Will Evans' free-kick tipped around the post. From the resulting corner, Evans fired United into a shock lead just three minutes into the game.

Shrewsbury responded well, with Marvin Morgan going close with a well-struck effort that hit the post and rebounded to safety.

In a sensational start to the match, Hereford doubled their lead with a superb strike from managers' views

It was an important win for us, as a club. Good crowd, good atmosphere and the boys played their part in it. The first 20 minutes we were out of the blocks, we played some good stuff and got them on the back foot. Ryan Bowman was exceptional up front, he led the line well. The back four were outstanding. The penalty came at the right time for us, because it was pressure, pressure, pressure on us at that point.

Ryan Bowman. The in-form striker chested a long ball down, advanced 15 yards and beat one defender, before unleashing a fantastic effort from 25 yards into the top corner of the net.

Shrewsbury clawed a goal back following a dubious decision from the referee on 30 minutes. Harry Pell's fine tackle was penalised by Gary Sutton, allowing Luke Summerfield to fire home the free-kick which gave James Bittner no chance.

Summerfield almost levelled proceedings but saw his effort hit the outside of a post and go behind for a goal-kick.

Hereford then won a penalty in the 73rd-minute when Bowman was bundled over by ex-Bull Lee Collins. Bowman graham turner

You can't give teams early goals, no matter what standard it is. It lifts the crowd and the players, we go down a notch or two and we're chasing the game after that. We had a lot of the ball and hit the woodwork a couple of times, but that counts for nothing. We're out of the FA Cup with, defensively, a very poor performance. We contributed to Hereford's victory, they've worked hard for their win.

picked himself up to score the penalty to seal the Bulls' place in the next round of the competition and a trip to fellow local rivals Cheltenham.

Bulls loanee Chris Todd was diagnosed with leukaemia at the age of 26. He's since made a recovery and is now back playing the game he loves and living each day as if it's his last.

Back in 2008 I was playing football, finding it hard, struggling with my breathing and just feeling lethargic.

I eventually picked up an injury with my groin, I tried to carry on, but needed an operation. I had the operation and was about to be discharged by the nurse, she took the needle out of my hand and it started bleeding really heavily, she asked if I had problems with my blood, and I said no, so she suggested I go to my local GP and ask for a blood test to make sure it was all fine.

Being a man I went away, and didn't do it. But I got quite a nasty infection from the operation, had some antibiotics and started to recover.

I then started getting back to fitness, and was driving to work about two weeks later, I came up to a junction, put my foot on the break and blacked out.

Luckily I had stopped, but I came too and thought somethings really not right.

Something clicked with what the nurse said two weeks before and I went to the Doctors to get the blood test done.

I had the blood test done that day after training, and four hours later I had the phone call to say I had leukaemia which was absolutely mind blowing.

It turned my world upside down to be honest with you. I remember sitting there with my little girl and my partner just couldn't believe it.

It was so hard to take in and just changed everything to be honest, my whole outlook on life.

So the next day I went to the hospital straight away, they say me down and were totally honest with me.

They said, 'look we don't know if we can cure it, we don't know if you can ever play football again' and just those words knocked me for six, football's all I've known my whole life.

They took tests, and said they hoped they'd find a treatment that could fight my type of leukaemia

What gets measured gets done

chris todd

I was just 26, a young lad, in my prime and I just couldn't get my head around it.

The tests came back and the doctors said they thought they'd found a treatment that would fight it, so I went on it straight away. It took a couple of months to start working, my body took to the medication so well - and I believe I am so lucky because of that, within another couple of months I started to feel better, not healthy, but like I was getting somewhere.

I started feeling better in myself to the point where I wanted to get back playing.

The doctor cleared me to play and I went on loan to Salisbury.

It was an incredible story, I thought I would never play again, but I did get back playing.

The loan spell went really well, I went back to my club, Torquay and we ended up getting promoted.

It was a great end to a horrible period in my life, I got man of the match in the play off semi final and the final, it was such a special feeling, it was the cherry on the top of the cake.

I'd strived for most of my career to get promotion, and I thought I'd lost the chance, but to turn it around was incredible. I believe things happen for a reason, we've all got our own destiny and we've all got our own road that we go down - and this is mine.

It's taken me on another journey, it's bought me here to Hereford and I've learned to love life.

Some people aren't as lucky as me, I was diagnosed early enough and managed to fight through it.

I'm incredibly lucky and that's a fact that I've grabbed hold of with both hands.

I've sung with Leona Lewis which is quite incredible, sung at the Royal Albert Hall which was another amazing experience.

I've met so many special people, met people who are in much worse situations than I was ever in, but when I'm with the choir it makes me feel how lucky I am, and how lucky I am to be able to spend time with the rest of the guys in the choir.

I'm part of something special because that choir is full of special people.

I play football and every game I play as if it's my last, because you never know, it could be.

As a player as a youngster you just play the game and don't think about it really, but you never know what's around the corner and you must enjoy every step in your life.

I'm here at Hereford and I'm loving it, we had three clean sheets in my first three games and we're still undefeated since I've been here.

I've settled in really well, going out on loan you never know what to expect, but I've come here and the support is just fantastic, I've really enjoyed it.

The lads have been brilliant, I've settled in really quickly, and I couldn't have asked for anything better.

The Shrewsbury game was unbelievable, I've had some ups and downs in the FA Cup over the years, I've done everything in the Cup, scored goals and given away goals, it's been quite funny really.

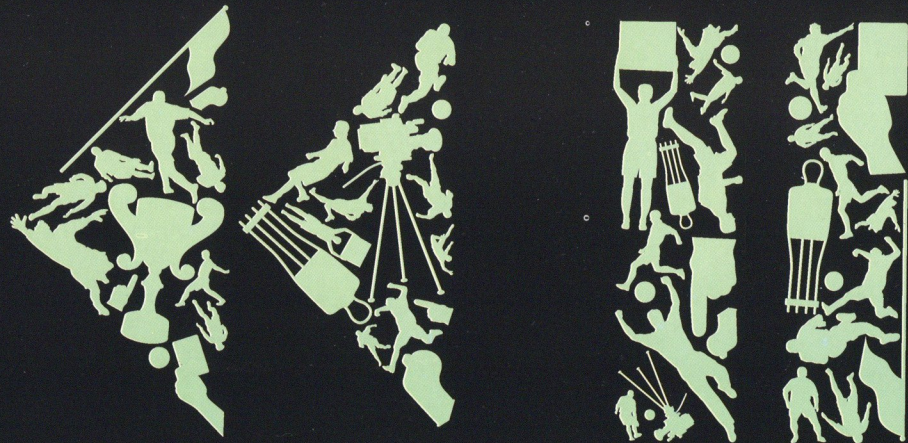

But Saturday was another special moment for me.

I believe I've given my all for this club, for the gaffer. He showed great faith in me to bring me in and give me games and I'd like to think I'm repaying him at the moment.

I don't know what the future has in store for me, whether Forest Green want me back, I just don't know, but I've loved every minute of it here and long may it continue.

injury of the month

Hamstring ('hammy') tear.

Muscles have string-like tendons at one end to attach them to bones. The word 'ham' originally referred to the fat and muscle behind the upper part of the leg, which butchers know is well developed in pigs. String refers to tendons, and thus the hamstrings are the string-like tendons felt on either side of the back of the knee.

The hamstring is any one of the three posterior thigh muscles (semitendinosus, semimembranosus and biceps femoris) whose tendons make up the borders of the space behind the knee. It is extremely rare for footballers to rupture or detach the strong tendons from the bones.

Overstretching or slipping can tear a hamstring.

The three muscles at the back of the thigh (semitendinosus, semimembranosus, biceps femoris long and short head) bend the knee. All but the short head of biceps femoris straighten the hip. The three 'true' hamstrings cross both the hip and the knee joint and are therefore act on two joints both to bend the knee and straighten the hip.

The 'quads' at the front of your thigh do the opposite to the hamstrings.

The hamstrings are crucial to walking, running and jumping and so are big in footballers, hence injuries to them are always very worrying.

You may recall how the Liverpool and England forward Michael Owen lost his electric pace following repeated hamstring tears. At the club, we occasionally assess the amount, type and location of the tear in badly injured hamstring tears with an MRI scan, as it is important not to re-tear the muscle in training as the players get close to playing again. Alternatively, portable ultrasound scans or clinical expertise can be used to assess the amount of damage done to the area.

Our physio team prevent further damage. The first aid is to immobilise, rest and ice the tear to prevent too much bleeding in the torn muscle, hence Marlon Jackson was correctly carried from the field against Stockport to prevent further injury. Then comes the physiotherapist's skill in assessing when and in what way to rehabilitate the individual players.

Prevention is best and explains why we keep the ground soft and the players train to strengthen their various muscles uniformly during pre-season training.

Squats, Hungarian dead-lifts and knee curls are all hamstring exercises (but have to be equally balanced by exercises for the 'quads').

Core stability and strength throughout the season is also important in preventing injuries and needs to be individualised. FIFA.com recommends 11 good non-contact exercises for players of all standards, and I would recommend them to you all, whether you play or support football, as they are healthy exercises for us all to try.

Keep fit and healthy in 2012.

player pledge

Today marks the launch of the Vice Presidents' Club's simple fundraiser that will run until the end of the current season.

What is it?

The 2012/13 Player Pledge is looking for pledges of donations whenever something specific happens. It can be the Bulls scoring a goal, a certain player making an appearance, the number of corners, clean sheets, or even points the Bulls collect. We've already had pledges for this season, including:

£1 for every clean sheet
£10 for every Bowman goal
£10 for every game that Stefan Stam starts

Where will the money go?

The money will go into the Vice Presidents' Club's funds with the aim to boost Martin Foyle's playing budget over the course of the season.

How do I enter?

Simply send your pledge through by email to hufcvpclub@gmail.com - stating your pledge, your name and contact number.

When do we pay pledges?

We will contact you to tell you how many times your chosen event has happened - and how much we would like from you - three times during the year - in November, January, and finally in May at the end of the season. You can pay your pledges by cheque, bank transfer, cash to one of the VP Club committee or Paypal.

Who are the Vice Presidents' Club?

The Vice Presidents' Club, since its inception in 1972, has donated close to a million pounds to Hereford United. Traditionally a club for local businessmen, it's fundraising activities are open to all, with thousands of people over the years contributing to the various draws, sportsman's evenings and fundraising nights that the football club has organised.

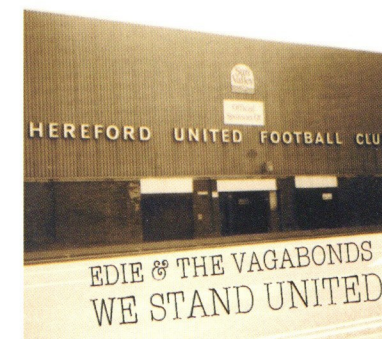

fundraising single

A Hereford United supporting band 'Edie and the Vagabonds' have released a reworked version of Danny Lee's classic, 'Hereford United We All Love You' - they've renamed it 'We Stand United'.

The single is available to download from the bands website for #2.

edieandthevagabonds.com

All proceeds will go to the Fighting Fund. The band reported good single sales over the first weekend, you'll be able to hear the new version at Edgar Street throughout the remainder of the season.

ron's world of history

Club historian Ron Parrott has been an avid Bulls fan all his life. His first Hereford game was in 1953. He is now a member of the Vice Presidents' Club.

He has written two books on the Bulls: The League Era, documenting United's spell in the Football League, from their election in 1972 through to relegation in 1997. The other, The Wilderness Years, charts United's nine-year stay in the Football Conference between 1997-2006.

Here, Ron looks back through the history books.

United followed up their 5-1 win against Darlington with another home victory to move up to second place in the league.

Mansfield had the better of the early exchanges, but it was Hereford who hit the front against the run of play after 26 minutes. Theo Robinson beat the offside trap and ran onto a Lionel Ainsworth pass before rounding a defender and slotting the ball past goalkeeper Carl Muggleton.

Wayne Brown saved the Bulls on a couple of occasions before they extended their lead with a beautifully worked and executed goal just four minutes into the second period. Ainsworth again left the Stags' defenders trailing in his wake before crossing for Trevor Benjamin to head home.

Mansfield should have been dead and buried, but no one told them that and they reduced arrears after 66 minutes.

Only a couple more great saves from Brown and some desperate defending retained United's lead to seal a valuable three points.

Southport had never won at Edgar Street, and with United threatening to run riot in the first half, a maiden victory looked unlikely.

The Bulls dominated the first half and on-loan Chukki Eribenne missed the easiest of many first-half chances when he hit the underside of the bar with the keeper rooted to the spot. Southport looked devoid of attacking ideas and had Hereford to thank when they took an unlikely lead six minutes after the break after a comedy of errors.

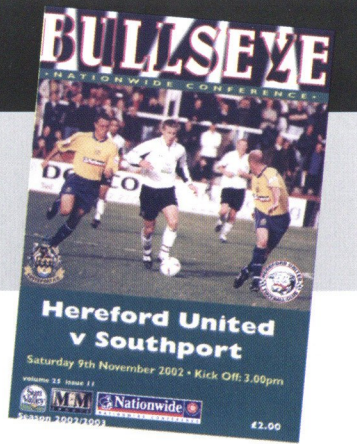

United needlessly conceded a corner when Ian Wright sliced a clearance, and from the flag-kick keeper Matt Baker fumbled the ball and it dropped to Steve Soley, who made no mistake from close range.

Hereford fought back and laid siege to Southport's goal but with the injury-time minutes ticking away, the visitors broke away and Baker could only push a shot into the path of Peter Thomson, who calmly tapped the ball home.

United fielded the same team that turned in a creditable performance at Crystal Palace in the FA Cup, but the same old problems let them down once again.

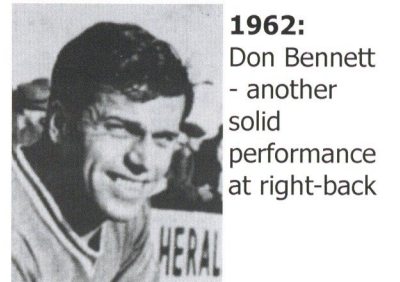

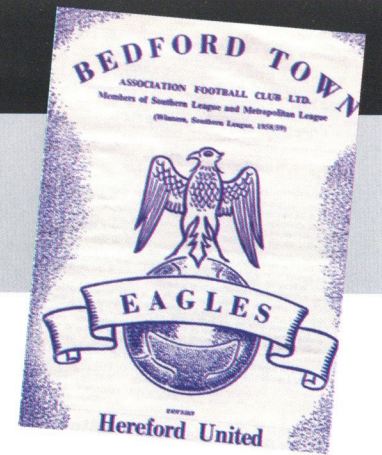

There was no doubt that their approach work was the match of any side in the league and should have gained them at least a draw, but pretty footwork counts for nothing and the forwards' shot-shy attitude meant that they returned home with nothing again.

Inside-right Stenhouse gave the Eagles the lead as early as the third minute and inside-left Wright made it 2-0 after 13 minutes, but Tony Biggs was unlucky when a goal was ruled out because another player was offside.

United's right-half Peter Clark scored his first for the club with a tremendous 30-yarder after 54 minutes, but the forwards were unable to match his shooting prowess and, despite more neat approach work, never managed to threaten the home keeper again.

Crewe Alexandra
Date: 7th November 1987
Result: 1-1 (D)
Final Placing: 19th

Venue: Edgar Street
Attendance: 2,272
Scorers: Ian Rodgerson
Managers: Newman/Bowyer

United were fresh from a 1-0 win at Cambridge United just four days earlier and Crewe were without a point in their last three away games, so the odds on a Hereford victory were good.

The Railwaymen seemed intent on playing for a goalless draw and were content to pack their defence. United had the lion's share of possession but lacked teeth up front and were unable to turn their constant pressure into goals and half-time arrived without troubling the scorers.

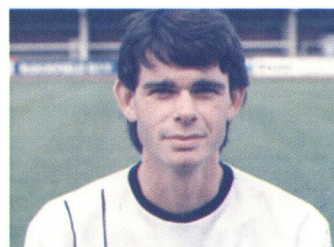

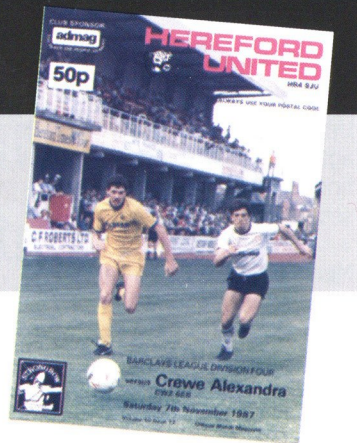

It was a poor game for spectators and the second half produced little better fare, with Crewe just relying on the odd breakaway.

Kevin Rose had little to do in goal until Aiden Murphy undeservedly put Crewe ahead. It seemed as if one goal would secure the points but Ian Rodgerson had other ideas and fired United level with one minute remaining.

Hereford: Kevin Rose, Mark Jones, Steve Devine, Gary Stevens, Darren Wassall, Steve Spooner, Ian Rodgerson, Ian Bowyer, Stewart Phillips, Phil Stant, Chris Leadbitter.

Sub used: Ian Benbow.

1987: Ian Rodgerson scored United's equaliser in the 89th minute

Chelmsford City
Date: 9th November 1946
Result: 2-4 (L)
Final Placing: 5th

Venue: Edgar Street
Attendance: 2,684
Scorers: Joe Johnson, Len Porter
Secretary/Manager: Fred Turner

United fielded two newcomers for their game with league leaders Chelmsford - Len Porter, a fast and tricky right-winger with a strong shot who was serving with the RAF locally, and Joe Johnson, a former Stoke City and England international left-winger.

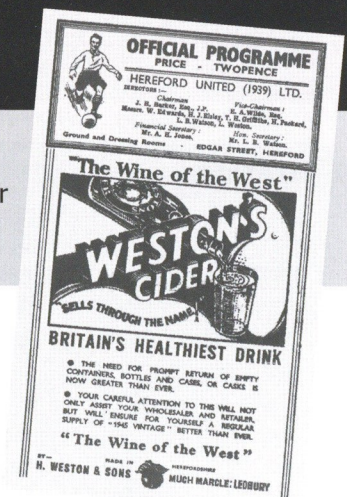

Both managed to get on the score-sheet in the first half.

Johnson's goal was a particularly fine effort as he netted with a terrific shot, but unfortunately City had not read the script and managed two first-half goals themselves.

United continue to attack during the second period but were frequently caught out at the back on the break.

Chelmsford sealed victory with two goals in as many minutes, giving them a 4-2 scoreline that they came close to increasing on several other occasions before full-time.

Hereford: Sid King, Andrew Patterson, Freddie Whitehurst, Jack Driscoll, Cyril Aston, Bert Reed, Len Porter, Don Roberts, Les Copp, Dougie Blair, Joe Johnson.

United have lost just once to Cheltenham since promotion to the Football League back in 1972.

The two sides first met in the Football Conference in August 1997, The Bulls ran out 3-2 winners with goals from Ian Foster and Neil Grayson.

Grayson later left Edgar Street for Cheltenham, with his transfer fee helping to pay the bills.

John Brough, who scored United's equaliser against Spurs in the FA Cup was Head of Youth at Whaddon Road for a number of years.
